Our service:

A carefully selected standard range with annual product innovations, expert advice and flexible delivery times.

Select partners such as designers, manufacturers and logistics companies ensure that your product ideas are implemented smoothly, from the initial designs and the competent manufacture of the products to the quick and reliable dispatch of the finished goods.

Regular goods controls and accredited test laboratories such as TÜV Rheinland guarantee our high quality standards. We of course always ensure that the latest regulations are adhered to:

CE- Conformité Européenne

The CE label is a label according to EU law for certain products. The CE label certifies that the manufacturing process and the product adhere to European guidelines.

REACH regulation

REACH stands for registration, evaluation, authorisation and restriction of chemicals. This is a chemicals regulation that came into force on 01/07/2007. As an EU regulation, REACH is equally and directly valid in all EU member states.

WEEE

The WEEE regulation (waste electrical and electronic equipment) is the EU guideline 2002/96/EG on the reduction of the increasing amount of electronic scrap from electric and electronic devices. The aim is to prevent, reduce and dispose of in an environment-friendly way the increasing amount of electronic scrap.

LFGB

The food, consumer articles and animal feed law includes all production and preparation steps along the food value chain and applies to food and consumer articles as well as cosmetics and animal feed.

Oeko-Tex

The Oeko-Tex Standard 100 is a test and certification system for textiles awarded by the "International Association for Research and Testing" in the area of textile ecology. It is designed to indicate to the consumer that a textile product carrying this label adheres to limits with regard to certain substances that are harmful to health.

Writing instruments

Even in ancient times, people eternalised characters using styluses on clay or wax tablets. These served as communication but also to document important events. Nowadays, writing has become more simple and also more comfortable. Thanks to the invention of the fountain pen in the early 18th century and of the ballpoint pen in the 20th century, anyone can now easily put their thoughts on paper. The choice of writing utensil often reflects the contemporary mood and gives insight into the writer's personality.

USB-Sticks

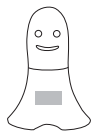

The USB stick is one of those little things without which our daily life would not be as we know it.

And the invention of this portable storage device was not down to ingenious inspiration, but rather to solving a pressing problem. In 1998, Israeli businessman Dov Moran travelled to New York and during his flight worked on a presentation. Unfortunately, he did not close his laptop properly and the battery ran out. The computer could then no longer be started and the presentation was locked in a defective device. And so Moran had the idea of creating an external storage medium which securely stores data and works with all computers.

Travel

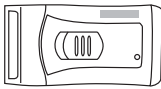

The most famous travellers of our culture are probably Marco Polo and Christopher Columbus. While these two gentlemen on their ventures in the 13th and 15th century still had to face many inconveniences, travelling these days has become much easier and above all more comfortable. And if you have the right accessories, business trips and holidays don't start once you're at your destination, but when you set off.

Time & weather

According to St. Augustine, the past is a memory in the present and the future an expectation in the present, while the present itself is a moment that passes before our minds from the future into the past.

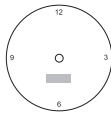

There is much to say about time.

Nowadays, time is one of the basic parameters of human coexistence. From the simple sundial to the modern radio clock, precise time information and measurements are an indispensable part of our day-to-day life.

Conical clock "Orbit"

Here, the clock rotates - not its hand! The clockwork causes the cone-shaped clock to revolve in circles and by the force of gravity, the small steel sphere, on its way through the outer groove, shows minute and hour.

Outdoor

According to Bertrand Russell (1872-1970, British philosopher and mathematician):
"A life without adventure is likely to be unsatisfying, but a life in which adventure is allowed to take whatever form it will is sure to be short."

It is thus advisable to strike the right balance and to enjoy little adventures in your spare time without risking life and limb. On the following pages, you will find useful and exciting accessories that turn a day spent with Mother Nature into a fun and carefree experience.

Tools & more

Tools have been around for around 2.4 million years. They help you work on things and shape them and they compensate for our physical deficits that we need to create things. Natural skills we see in the animal world often served as inspiration. Even nowadays tools imitate salient animal characteristics, such as the buck that doesn't fall over, or the shredder or the mincing machine, imitating the teeth of the wolf. Tools are generally simple instruments based on the principles of mechanics and their impact. While the first tools were made from stone and wood, metal has been used to manufacture them since the Copper Age.

Cree® power LED

Cree®-LEDs are number one when it comes to lightness and are particularly heat resistant, have high light yield and are very robust. Even after more than 50.000 operating hours, you will still have 70% of the original light yield. This pocket light with the new power LEDs also has a zoom function with different brightness levels, flashing light function as well as the emergency signal "SOS" in international Morse code.

Adidas

The history of today's Adidas AG began in the early 1920s in the laundry room in the home of the Dassler brothers, where they developed trainers optimally designed to fit the athlete's foot. In 1949, Adolf Dassler founded his own company and soon equipped the German national football team with his trainers. Ever since this so-called Miracle of Bern in 1954, these football shoes by Adidas have been world-famous. The collection of the sports goods manufacturer now also includes a wide range of clothing and accessories and is no longer only enjoyed by professional athletes.
